I'm not sure if there's any way possible to make water seem less appealing:

Disgusting name, decomposing head on can, water is not actually visible.

The image shows a smartphone screen with a white background. At the top, the time is 3:48 and there are signal, Wi-Fi, and battery icons. The word "tinder" is written in its signature red lowercase font with a small flame icon to the left. In the top right corner is a black three-line menu icon. Below the header is a large red bar containing a smaller white circular logo with a flame inside. To the right of this logo is the text "VP of Ghosting". Above the main content area is a thin horizontal bar with three colored segments: light blue, light green, and light orange. The main content starts with a section titled "The Role" in bold black text. Below it is a detailed description of the job requirements. Further down is a section titled "What We're Looking For" with a bulleted list of qualifications. At the bottom is a large red button with the text "APPLY FOR THIS ROLE" in white. The footer contains the URL "lifeattinder.com" and a small copyright symbol.

The Role

We're seeking a visionary and dynamic VP of Ghost Hunting to address one of online datings most perplexing challenges: ghosting. Qualified candidates will show proficiency in tracking, mitigating, and providing solutions to this phenomenon where matches unexpectedly leave someone on read.

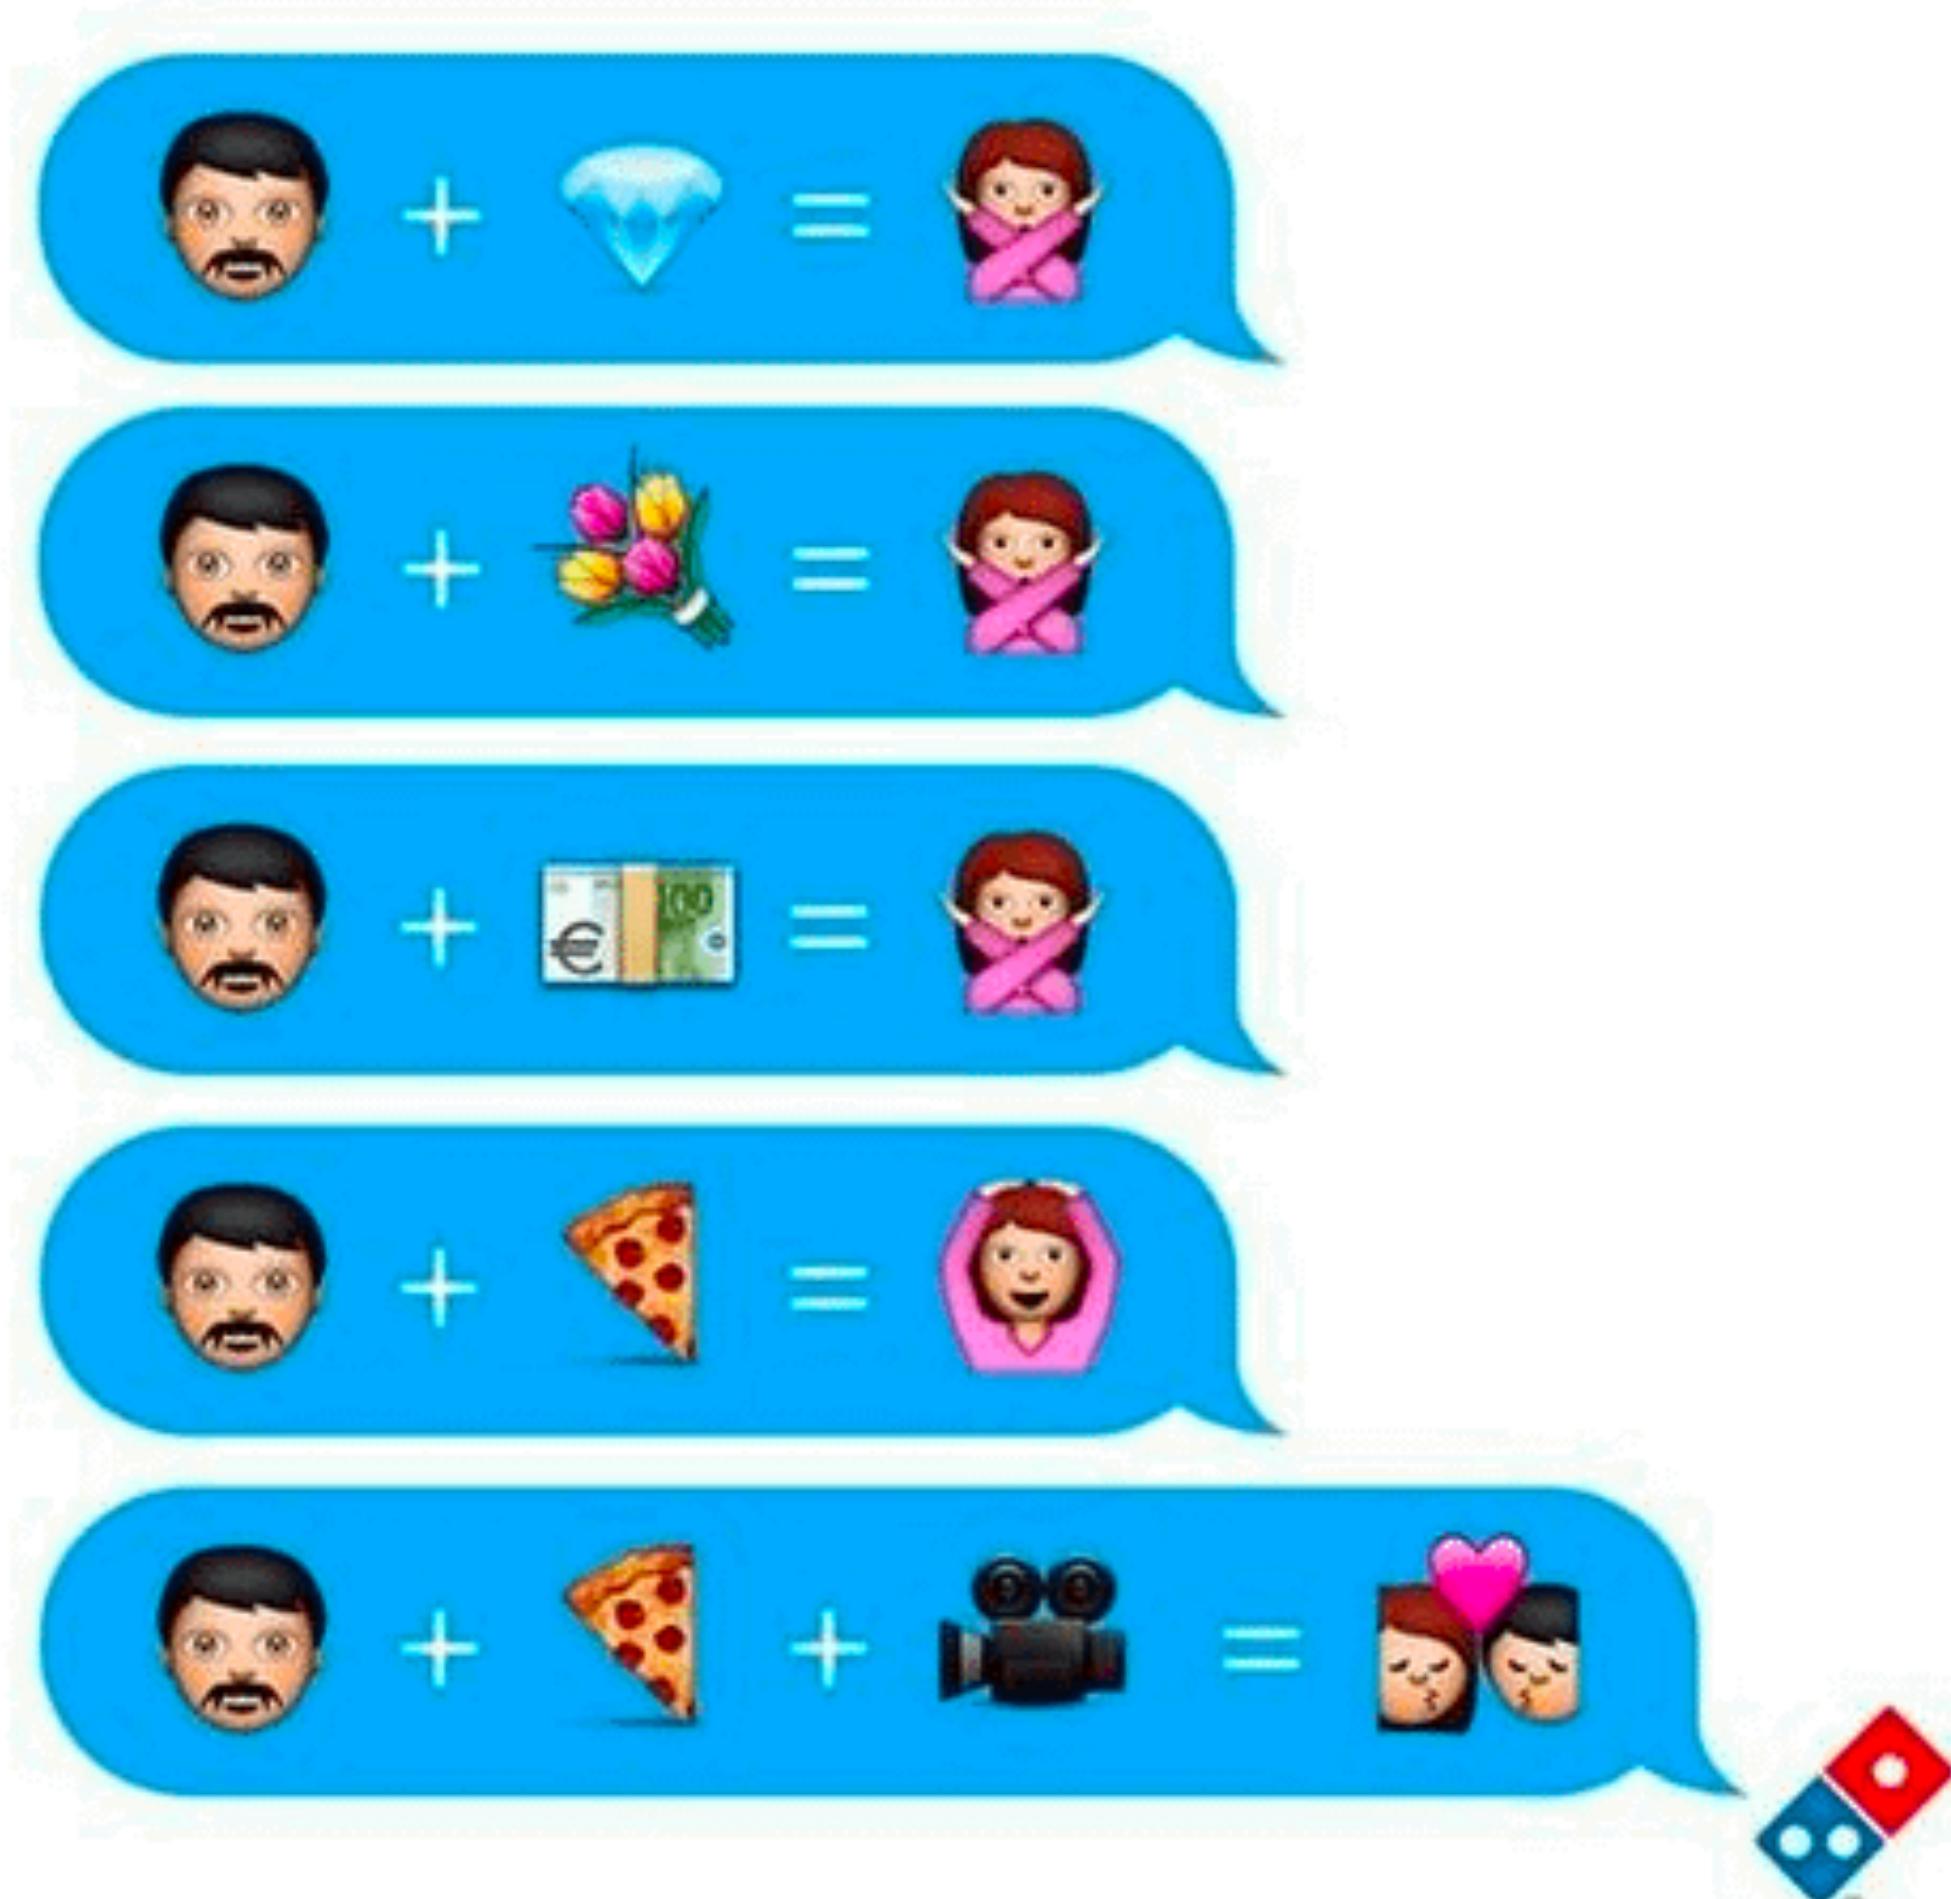

What We're Looking For

- Proven track record of being ghosted in a previous relationship.
- Analytical abilities, problem solving, tendency to go deep on internet sleuthing for a bestie.
- Upbeat, hardworking, enthusiastic. A passionate advocate for users dating experience. Ideal candidates believe that it starts with a swipe.
- Able to tell the difference between genuine interest and breadcrumbing.
- Ability to analyze data and read through an entire job interview to realize this is an April Fools prank.
